THE NEW YORK SUN says: The defeat of Grover Cleveland is the most important service that can now be rendered to the democracy. The election of Grover Cleveland would be the greatest injury that the democracy could now be called to endure. Fortunately it is now probable that the service will be efficiently rendered and the injury prevented.

At Buffalo Senator Grady experienced the same treatment from the democratic mob as Albany. Every effort was made to prevent his being heard. The democratic leaders are determined to drive him from the field, and the Buffalo Times states that he was to be arrested at Lockport on a suit for $50,000 damages, preferred by one of Cleveland's friends. The democratic party will not tolerate any independence of opinion. Having nominated Cleveland by the unit rule and the suppression of opposing sentiment, it is proposed to elect him by the same means.—Bay City Tribune.

All the Germans are for Cleveland, the democrats say, and the Buffalo Courier thinks that is natural, because he owns stock in a co-operative brewery. But Ex-Mayor Becker, of that City, who is a German, says that "Cleveland is not such a man as should be president of the United States," and the Rev. Dr. Van Bokkelen says he "never knew a true when the Germans were more firm in their advocacy of republican principles," while Colonel Charles D. Zachary says that "in the words of Churchill, when they pitch their tent they pitch it among the living."

Let it Die!
 The following article was published in the Chicago Times, a paper which supported Hancock, and now supports Cleveland, under date of Nov. 7th, 1880, and is as true of the party now, as it was then:
 "The recent presidential election has shown that there is an invincible reason why the democratic party can never win a national victory. It is that the youths of the republic are not democratic. The sons of democratic fathers have grown up republicans. So long as slavery and the war linger within the memory of Americans, the youths of the republic will continue to grow up republicans; and slavery and the war will be remembered as long as the public school system exists."
 The public schools have slain the democratic party with the text books. It is vain for statesmen to declare that there were as many democrats as republicans in the union army. (The confederate army was composed of democrats entirely.—Ep.) It is vain to affirm that the war for the union could not have been carried to a successful close without the aid of the democratic party. (They were a constant menace, for it took its many soldiers to guard against a fire in the rear, as it did in front.) It is idle for philanthropy to suggest that the attitude of the public toward the war in the beginning was a humane one; that it was inspired by the higher and better wish that the cause of the conflict should be peacefully resolved, and the spilling of brother blood by brother hands be avoided. The democratic party has been identified with slavery and slaveholding. The republican party has been identified with freedom and the war. Therefore are the youths of the country incapable of being democratic. Therefore the democratic party can never win a national victory. Its eyes are dying away.

The boys who catch the bullets that fall from their stiffened hands are republicans. This fact cannot be denied. It will do no good to quarrel with an air-curve which would have emptied to diminish the number of democrats and increase the number of republicans are insignificant besides this one tremendous and fateful fact. The curse of slavery has poisoned the blood and rotted the bone of the democratic party. The malodorous of the war has infected its brain. The young wife who held the babe up to his father as he hurried to the top of the dunn of his departing regiment, has not suckled a democratic. The weary foot of the gray grand-mother who watched the children while the wife was busy has not rocked the cradle of democrats. The chair that the soldier father never came back to fill has not been dimmed upon by democrats. The old blue coat that his son carried in the trenches, against Mr. Blaine, was sent to the editor of the Terre Haute Democrat. The Sentinel jacks requested that "friendly mention" be made of the contemplated publication, and the editor of the Democrat responded as follows:
 "Yes, you can have a 'friendly mention.' Any newspaper that would stab the virtue of a mother to gratify the cravings of a putrid brain can have plenty of 'friendly mention.' Any newspaper that goes into moral bankruptcy to grovel in tears the respect of children for a mother, can have plenty of 'friendly mention' from the editor of the Democrat. Some of it may be hot, but it will be 'friendly mention' all the same. Any newspaper that advertises itself by fattening the bats of impenetrable pollution on the evidence of depraved and rotten brains can have a 'friendly mention' by the editor of the Democrat."
 "Yes, Charley, I will mail you a marked copy."

Many greenbackers suppose that, if the fusion electoral ticket should be elected, six electoral votes will be secured for Butler. They misinterpret the agreement between the parties. The vote that shall be cast for each presidential candidate is to be determined by the popular vote, and is to be divided pro rata, according to the number of votes for each of the determining candidates on the tickets. Moses W. Field on the greenback ticket, and John W. Flowers on the democratic ticket. In 1880 Hancock received in Michigan 131,323 votes, Weaver 11,805. Should the democratic and greenback votes preserve the same proportions this fall, Butler would be entitled to three of the electoral votes and Cleveland nine. If fusion should carry the day, as there is nowhere near this activity among the greenbackers that prevailed in 1880, and many votes have been driven away by the fusion with the Cleveland democracy, it is not likely the greenbackers will poll more than three-fourths of the Weaver vote of two from Michigan. However, the foregoing is an estimate based upon an "if" that will not arise. Butler will carry Michigan and neither Butler or Cleveland will be benefited by the fusion combination.—Bay City Trib.

Troublesome Records.
 A few days ago, in a speech at Shelbyville, Ind., Senator Vorhees had the hardihood to say that "any one who says that I ever applied the epithet 'Lincoln hirelings' to a Union soldier lies in his throat and in his heart." Thereupon the Indianapolis Times associates the following paragraph with the speech:
 "SULLY, Ind., Sept. 28, 1884.—We, the undersigned citizens of Sully County, Ind., were present at a public speaking held in Sully, Aug. 5, 1882, when the Hon. D. W. Vorhees said, speaking in reference to the Union soldiers, that they should go to the nearest blacksmith shop and have an iron collar made and placed around their necks, inscribed thereon in large letters, 'My dog—A. Lincoln,' and at the same time he referred to the Union soldiers as 'Lincoln's dogs and hirelings.'"
 The Times also quotes from a speech delivered by Mr. Vorhees on March 5, 1884, in which Mr. Vorhees called Abraham Lincoln an "execrable despot," and those who supported him, "poor, cringing despised scoundrels." In large letters, "My dog—A. Lincoln," and at the same time he referred to the Union soldiers as "Lincoln's dogs and hirelings."

A Friendly Mention.
 One of the Shoemaker circulars announcing the forthcoming publication to the Sentinel people of a supplement containing the charges against Mr. Blaine, was sent to the editor of the Terre Haute Democrat. The Sentinel jacks requested that "friendly mention" be made of the contemplated publication, and the editor of the Democrat responded as follows:
 "Yes, you can have a 'friendly mention.' Any newspaper that would stab the virtue of a mother to gratify the cravings of a putrid brain can have plenty of 'friendly mention.' POLITICAL ITEMS.
 Cleveland says: "I didn't know it was loaded, but it shall never halpin again, so help him Main."

The Detroit Journal says Butler is having a triumphant tour through the state. He looked to us like if he was on a big jaunt.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle, says: Mr. Hendricks is already on the stump, and thereby saves himself the trouble of getting up one in November.

"I don't see how we can possibly lose Ohio, as we haven't got it to lose," says Carl Schurz, the shining light of the independents.

"It is necessary for this government that the republican ticket should be elected this year," says Judge David Davis in his retirement.

For a precious old granny doing the sympathy racket and begging for votes, commend us to that old duffer, Mother Hendricks, of Indiana.

The democratic campaign of indecency, will never make votes, except with people who are too low to appreciate anything better.
